BEARDED IRIS CULTURE

Plant iris rhizomes as soon as they are received if possible. If they must be held for a few days before planting be sure that they are unpacked and exposed to the air but keep them in a cool dry place. The iris bed should be prepared beforehand and allowed to settle. Spade or work to a depth of 10 or 12 inches. Work in a generous supply of bone-meal or well rotted manure. If your soil is heavy or poorly drained raise your iris bed a little above the surrounding soil. Good drainage is necessary and full sunshine desirable. Iris will grow in the shade but will not bloom satisfactorily if at all. Set the new plants with the rhizomes barely covered with soil and the roots as deep as possible with the soil well firmed around them. Keep the soil moist until the plants are established but do not over-water. If soil is dry at planting time a good soaking is advisable. Fertilize with bone meal, well-rotted manure or a complete fertilizer once or twice a year but do not let the fertilizer come in contact with the rhizomes or it may cause soft rot. Plants should be divided and reset every 3 or 4 years.

JAPANESE IRIS (Iris Kaempferi)

These exotically beautiful iris from the Orient are gaining rapidly in popularity as gardeners learn that they can be grown successfully under ordinary garden conditions. They are spectacular, gorgeously colored and considered by many to be the queen of the iris family.

We are now able to offer our customers a choice selection of the best varieties including many of the new Higo strain. We have taken every precaution to keep the varieties true to name and believe you will find the names and descriptions correct. Our soil and climate are ideal to produce strong and vigorous plants and we believe that there are none finer obtainable. When well grown the flowers of many varieties will exceed eleven inches in diameter. An established clump will produce dozens of these huge beauties and the stems of some are five feet tall.

The plants we send our customers are strong heavy rooted divisions ready to produce vigorous new growth when replanted. All iris are shipped prepaid.

CULTURE

Japanese (Kaempferi) iris are successfully grown in most parts of the United States and do especially well in the Atlantic and Pacific Coast states and along the southern borders of the Great Lakes. In their native country they are subjected to sub-zero weather. Their soil requirements are similar to those of Azaleas and Rhododendrons and they will not tolerate lime in any form. For best results they prefer heavily enriched soil and ample moisture but after blooming require no more moisture than other perennials. Plant with the crowns about 2 inches below the surface of the soil. Do not expect typical flowers the first year as it takes Japanese Iris longer to establish proper root growth. Well rotted manure of any kind is the best fertilizer and it is preferable to work it thoroughly into the soil before planting. If your soil is alkaline the addition of aluminum sulphate in proper quantities, peat moss or oak-leaf mold will aid in producing the proper soil condition. If the leaves turn yellow the presence of lime is indicated and lime is fatal to these iris. They prefer full sun except in warm areas where afternoon shade is desirable.

They will do well in any ordinary garden soil but if you have a place on the edge of a pond or along the bank of a ditch or creek it would be ideal. There are few flowers that will reward you more richly for a little extra moisture and care.

VEINED AND PENCILLED SELECTIONS (Double or Single) Each $1.50 3 for $4.00

Variations in color patterns in this group are practically unlimited. The light colored grounds are veined and penciled in a light network of purple, red or blue; sometimes combining two or three colors. Many charming patterns and combinations are achieved making this one of the popular selections.

WHITE SELECTIONS (Double or Single) Each $2.00; 3 for $5.00

Any garden planting of darker colors requires some white to make it show to advantage. In this group are the pure white selections of varying form, all outstandingly beautiful with their brilliant clear white petals and styles and yellow spears. Many of the doubles are heavily ruffled, all are large and among the singles are many exceedingly large and graceful beauties with great drooping falls.

PERENNIAL ASTERS (MICHAELMAS DAISY)

Easiest to grow of fall blooming perennials, for the border or for cut flowers. Because of the marvelous improvement in colors and increased size of blooms during recent years they have become increasingly popular. Coming in bloom in the autumn months when flowers are scarce they furnish a colorful display from August until frost.

SHIPMENT—April 15 to June 1

CULTURE—Their culture is very simple. They prefer rich, moist soil and full sun. Most of the Novae-Belgi varieties are rampant growers and should be divided every two or three years for best results. Some of the tall types should be staked. Cutting the tops of tall growing varieties will keep them lower and promote better branching. Do not pinch back after July 10. Strong well-rooted plants, guaranteed to bloom the first season.

DAYLILIES

Daylilies are the most adaptable and hardy of perennial flowers. Their rapid rise to popularity is largely due to the tremendous improvement in color range, size and quality attained by hybridizers during the past few years. They will withstand heat and drought, or rain and flood and still continue to thrive and bloom.
